

ABSTRACT

A paint roller with a flexure joint between the handle and the shaft upon which the tube-receiving frame is mounted. The flexure joint permits selective repositioning of the tube-receiving frame relative to the handle. The shaft may be rotatably mounted to the flexure joint with a releasable locking mechanism for permitting selective rotational repositioning of the shaft relative to the flexure joint.